Blondie didn't seem to be getting good service out of the Bumstead car. She bitterly complained about it one evening to Dagwood.

"What seems to be the trouble, dear?" he inquired sympatheticaly.

"I don't know exactly," Blondie replied, "but I wonder sometimes if it isn't due to all those raw materials they use at the factory."

Such exotic foods as fried caterpillars and pickled grasshoppers are not really very unusual any more. You can buy them in most fancy food stores, if you're in the mood for such things. But availability hasn't made them universally popular. Not long ago we were at a party when one of the male guests was insisting that he'd starve before he'd eat a chocolate-covered ant. His wife, not wanting him to appear unsophisticated, interpolated, "It's just that William has never cared for chocolate!"

* * *

WIFE (reading husband's fortune card): "You are a leader of men. You are brave, strong-willed, and popular with women. Gee, it has your weight wrong, too!"

* * *

A woman's husband asked her what she wanted for her birthday the next week. She thought for a moment, then said, "This year I want cold, hard cash for a change."

The following day her husband filled her request. He put twenty dollars in nickels, dimes and quarters into a quart jar, then filled it with water. On her birthday he presented his wife with a solidly frozen bottle of change from the freezer.

* * *

NERVOUS WOMAN PASSENGER (on bus): "Driver, that man sitting across from me is crazy. He keeps telling me he's George Washington."

DRIVER: "I'll fix him." (Raising his voice) "All out for Mount Vernon!"

* * *

The doorbell rang and the lady of the house discovered a workman, complete with tool chest, on the porch.

"Madam," he announced, "I'm the piano tuner."

The lady exclaimed, 'Why, I didn't send for a piano tuner."

The man replied, "I know you didn't, but your neighbors did."

* * *

It's fascinating the effect television has had on housewives. Everybody figured it would replace radio—instead it has replaced cleaning, washing, ironing, and cooking.

MAN (boasting to a friend about being such an expert handy man): "When anything goes wrong around the house, I just fix it myself."

WIFE (sitting close by): "Yes, dear. Ever since you fixed the clock, the cuckoo backs out, scratches his head and asks what time it is."

* * *

A woman returned a smart pair of shoes to the very exclusive shop where she had purchased them.

"They won't do," she announced. "I simply can't walk in them."

"Madam," the clerk replied, looking down his nose, "people who have to walk don't shop here!"

* * *

Overheard at a party in Hollywood. A handsome movie star to a pretty young thing, "But enough about me! Let's talk about you!"

"Oh!" said the pretty girl, flattered.

"What did you think of my latest picture?" was the question posed.

* * *

"It's the furniture company," Mrs. Jones whispered to her husband. "They've come for the piano!"

"But we have the money to pay the installment!" Her husband reminded her.

"I know," replied his wife. "But let them take it downstairs, then I'll pay them! I've decided to put the piano in the living room!"

* * *

Out of curiosity, a farmer had grown a crop of flax and had a tablecloth made out of the linen. Sometime later, he bragged about it to a woman guest at dinner. "I grew this tablecloth myself."

"Did you really?" she exclaimed. "How did you manage it?" It was plain that she had no idea as to how tablecloths came into being.

The farmer lowered his voice mysteriously. "If you promise to keep a secret, I'll tell you."

The guest promised.

"Well," proceeded the farmer, "I planted a napkin."

* * *

Customer: "Have you a book called "MAN, the MASTER OF WOMEN?"

Salesgirl: "Yes sir. The fiction department is on the other side*"

* * *

During a motor tour of Europe, two American women visited Greece. Stopping by an ancient ruin, one woman suggested that the other pose for a snapshot in front of the fallen pillars.

"Okay," agreed her chum, "but don't get the car in the picture or my husband will think I ran into the place."
